

Scrip Awards, London

November 15th, 2006

Soliqs was one of the four finalists for the Scrip Award for the "Best Drug Delivery Advance" category for its new drug Kaletra® Tablets, which have been manufactured by Meltrex® Technology.

Kaletra® (Lopinavir plus Ritonavir) is a protease inhibitor for treating HIV infected patients.

The Scrip Award for Best Drug Delivery Advance acknowledges the importance of finding innovative ways to administer drugs for the success of the pharmaceutical industry. Developing novel methods to deliver drugs to the body brings benefits, both for patients and for companies looking to extend a drug's commercial life expectancy. For this award, the judges looked for the product that represents the best advance in enabling or enhancing drug delivery technology and Abbott is proud to have been short listed amongst the other companies.
